

GROUND HANDLERS AT DUBLIN AIRPORT

The DAA is responsible for managing the operation of the Airport and for the provision of infrastructure to enable airlines and handling agents to operate efficiently and effectively at the airport.

Some airlines provide their own ground handling services. For example, Aer Lingus and Ryanair both provide Passenger Handling and Baggage Handling services for their passengers.

Other airlines contract services from specialised ground handling companies. All ground handling companies are licensed by the Commission for Aviation Regulation (CAR) which is independent of the DAA.

Below is a list of services provided at Dublin Airport and the corresponding providers of those services.
